Press Release

AMSTERDAM WHITNEY GALLERY, 511 West 25th Street, Chelsea, New York City, is proud to showcase in its JULY 10 - AUGUST 4, 2009 exhibition, leading Contemporary Master Artists whose works run the gamut from figurative to surrealist, abstract to landscape. AMSTERDAM WHITNEY GALLERY continues to present the innovative art of the contemporary master of photomontage S.M. LEWIS.

TRANSLUMINESCENT METAPHORS explores, in distinct artistic styles, primordial aesthetic elements that touch upon the profound universal emotional and psychological human experience. AMY BARKER-WILSON weaves dramatic dreamscapes of bold colors and mystical environments in her powerful abstract paintings which are highly expressive, eliciting powerful reactions and challenging the viewer to become immersed in his or her own subconscious. SLAVKO DUJIC's kinetic oeuvre of chromatic paintings communicates through vigorous line and color in a pure manner that lends the art a universal quality and an organic effusiveness of intense emotion and energy thus leaving the senses and mind refreshed and vitalized. SAM FADHLI paints stunning landscapes capturing the monumental landmarks of the American West, depicting the magnificence and untamed beauty of the desert. Additionally, Mr. Fadhli creates elegant equine sculptures, statuesque bronzes immortalizing the Native American, as well as expressive figurative depictions of the human form which transport his subjects from reality to the deepest corners of the heart.
